Survivor Inclusion

Each individual, survivor has unique lived experience, work experience, work experience, and background experience.

It allows survivors to participate at the table, at the center of the table, and lead the table to design the programs, practices, policies, laws, and monitoring and evaluation.

Survivors received opportunities for growth and development.

Survivor is a key stakeholder; survivor inclusion is essential and recommendable to ensure the human rights-based and survivor-centered approach to combat human trafficking and needs to be included in all aspects of anti-trafficking work.
